returning a promise var myFunction = function (arg1, arg2) { return $.ajax({... }); } $.when(myFunction()).done(...); Suppose I have to pass two additional arguments to the function, the argument list is too long, so I do it like this: $.when(myFunction()).done(function () {...}, function () {...}, arg1, arg2); I am curious how I can do this without writing functions, one for each of the arguments I want to pass. I am using jquery 3.1.1. A: From the point of view of the caller, there is no such thing as an argument. The arguments of the function can be inferred from the function's context. From the point of view of the argument, there is a distinction between things that happen before they are bound to the function, and things that happen afterward. Think of the parameters as being the things that happen before the function is
